*"Two Roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And Sorry I could Not travel both . . . "*

So it is when we make the decision to come to Vocational. There are many roads whose ends we cannot see; but we must take one; the decision cannot be avoided. We will always be faced with decisions—the crossroads of life.

*"I shall be telling them with a sigh . . .
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by . . . "*

When we came to Vocational, we made the choice of roads. It may have been one of which we were not certain. We have chosen the road less traveled by, and now we are on our way.

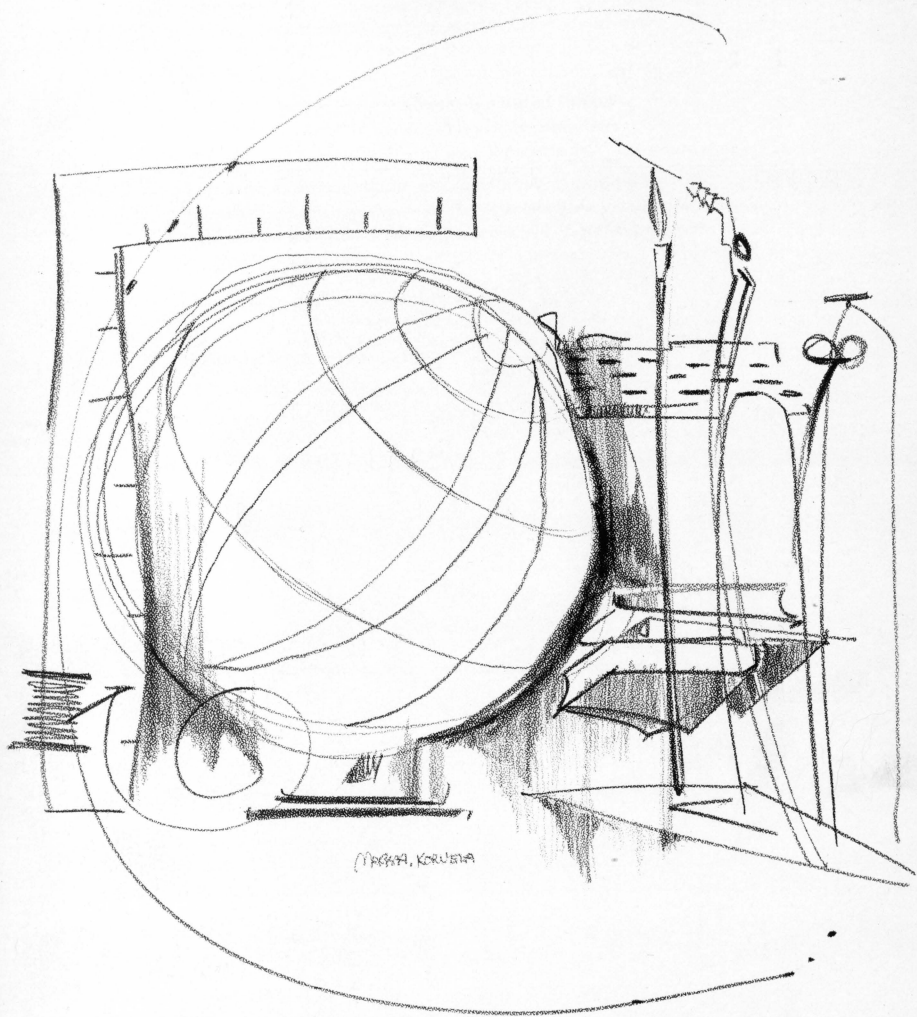

*"And miles to go before we sleep,
And miles to go before we sleep."*

Farewell dear Vocational,

Administration

Every year sophomores come and seniors leave each having passed another milestone in his life. Even though the students come and go, the faculty remains faithful to the school—a special part of our building itself.

It is this body of willing people that we owe so much to as we meet the "Crossroad" between childhood and the adult world. We shall always remain indebted to those who guided and taught us during our awakening to maturity.

As the years pass and faces change, many heart-warming memories of the long-gone experiences with teachers will prevail in our minds.

Any traveler, in order to reach his destination, must follow a definite route, selected from several choices available to him.

His decision regarding his choice of route is based on information and advice available to him.

It is the same with us as we travel our various paths. We not only gain much from others who have traveled before us, but we profit also from our own past experiences. We should carefully consider the advice, information, and experiences of others as well as our own so that we may choose the correct route as we approach each crossroad in our lives.

Mr. Jensen confers with two faculty members.

Another Senior class activity being introduced to Mr. Jensen.

In the tour of a lifetime one encounters many crossroads —
a place where one may change his direction in life.
Any such change indicates that a decision has either been made in a thoughtful manner or in a haphazard fashion.

It is our desire that all of our students achieve some skills in the trades of their choice, and also some knowledge that will enable them
to make practical and worthwhile decisions in the future.

It is our hope that each of you will have the opportunity to set a standard of action and conduct which will insure your success and happiness in a world of progress.

Mr. McGimpsey looks over the work of the "hardworking" Tradewind staff as Elizabeth Brage explains our procedure to him.

Counselor and Coordinators

MR. MICHAEL DAVIES: Counselor

Goals: The end to which a design tends;
aim; purpose.

Mr. Webster states in one of his many books that in order to reach a "goal" we must have at least three things: purpose, aim, tend.

Purpose—This is something for us to decide. We must ask ourselves, what am I going to be? Whatever it may be needs purpose, and our counselors and coordinators have helped us to decide what our goal in life may be.

When we have purpose we have something to aim for, something that will make us a success!

The third, tend, that's a strange word isn't it? But it means to reach. The goals we reach are seldom reached alone. We all owe a lot of thanks to those who have helped us.

"The requirements for College are"—explains Mr. Davies to Beverly Fairbanks.

MRS. IRENE DWYER: Business Education: Chairman Scholarship Committee.

MISS CAROL HAUGER: Cosmetology: Needle Arts: Sales Training: Tailoring: Trade Relations.

MR. ROBERT LARSON: Cabinet Making: Pattern Making: Pre-nursing: Radio-T.V.: Restaurant Training: Shoe Repair.

MR. KENNETH THOMPSON: Commercial Art: Architectural Drafting: Metal Art: Printing: Alumni: Open House: Scholarships.

MR. ROYALSTON JENNINGS: Auto and Aviation Mechanics: Machine Shop: Sheet Metal: Welding.

MR. REUBEN SCHAFER: Barbering: Cabinet Making: Electricity.

Special Service Teachers

MISS MARGARET CHRISTENSON: Staff Council; Chairman of Health Committee; Civil Defense.

Fred Rogers receives special care and attention from Mrs. Christenson.

Mrs. Brandhorst offers a bit of advice to Sharon Wincek.

MRS. VIOLET E. BRANDHORST: Staff Council; Health Committee.

What is a Special Service Teacher? She is a nurse, but a nurse with many responsibilities which make her dedicated life more involved. Hers is the decision whether or not to send a student home or to keep him here despite his painful plea. She gives assistance in many forms, as a nurse, counselor, and a friend. These she gives out willingly and freely to all students who want and need her help. Students with difficult problems may receive special guidance that is fitted to their individual needs from the Special Service Teacher, also.

We're all in our places . . .

Day School Staff

Keeping track of some 1400 students from 8:20 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. can be quite a job. Ask anyone down in the office about how busy they are. Better yet, don't disturb them again—just glance at their desks and the mountains of paper work will scare you.

A full-time staff is required to keep the school running efficiently and these women do a marvelous job. All of the brass need secretaries and the secretaries need assistants and often times students are asked to help in some of the routine work.

Walking into the office is cheerful because everyone always greets you with a smile. Our girls deserve an extra pat on the back!

MRS. NOREEN STIEHM: Administration Aide.

OFFICE STAFF: Mrs. Jacquelin Hunter, Mrs. Millie Lukanen, Miss Mai Berg, Mrs. Nyla McCue, Mrs. Alice McLaughlin, Mrs. Betty Webster, Mrs. Noreen Stiehm, Mrs. Bea Conley.

Night School

MR. GLEN JADWIN: Assistant Principal

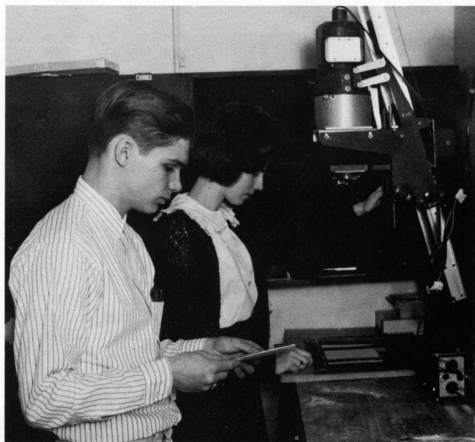

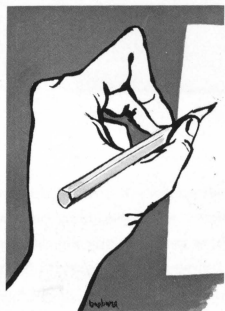

The world of learning never ceases—it goes on day and night. Such is the story at Vocational. All of the jumpy and exuberant high schooler's leave at three and a completely different, more businesslike, atmosphere appears in the evening. Night school offers a course of interest to anyone desiring added knowledge. It may be the hobbyist who wants to know new and advanced techniques, or a person who wants further training in order to advance his job. You can imagine the variety offered from among 155 different courses.

Although no academic credit is given, a certificate of attendance is awarded upon completion of the term. To qualify for night school, a person must be at least sixteen years of age and not already attending school.

NIGHT STAFF: Mr. Glen Jadwin, Mrs. Genevieve Maurer, Mrs. Ann Falkum, Mr. Armas Pello, Mr. Lou Derby, Mrs. Erma Andrews, Miss Donna Greene, Mrs. Mel Mankowski, Mr. Dale Davidson.

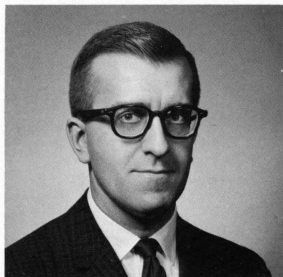

Students in the ART department will find the education they acquired will qualify them for many different jobs in this field. They get experience in such courses as design, fashion, and wood and metal sculpture. The art department supplies the displays on the bulletin boards and the store windows. These students develop their skills and techniques and ability to express their initiative.

Enlarging photographs is an important part of the Commercial Art Department.

MR. GALE GREENWOOD: Commercial Art; Department Chairman; Hall Displays; Commencement.

MRS. KATHERINE JOHNSON: Commercial Art; Advertising Design; Fashion illustration; Open House.

MR. DONALD DAVIS: Commercial Art; Retail Display.

Department

Skills learned in the METAL ARTS field can be distributed in many different areas of art. These students are also given basic understanding and background in design. This course is very specialized, dealing mostly with jewelry and silversmithing. The products produced in this trade are sold in our school store, Corner Cove.

Concentration is the byword for all artists.

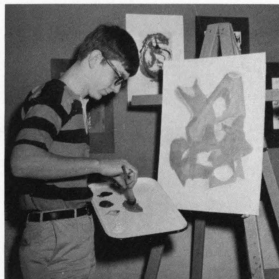

MR. F. JULES REED: Design; Metal Arts.

MRS. MARTHA TRUDELL: Typing and Copy Preparation; Photography; Tea Room Hostess.

Another creative art by Brooke Kenney.

In AUTO MECHANICS students learn repair and the building of engines. These students are trained in customer relations and shop record systems. They may be placed in service garages and dealerships after graduation.

"A little more," Mr. Fera Meyer tells LeRoy Smithrud, as they lift the car off the floor with the hoist.

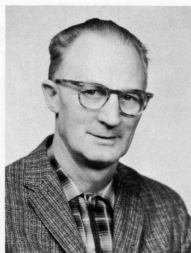

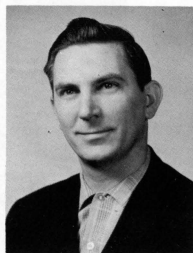

Auto Mechanics

MR. FERAZ MEYER: Department
Chairman-Auto Mechanics.

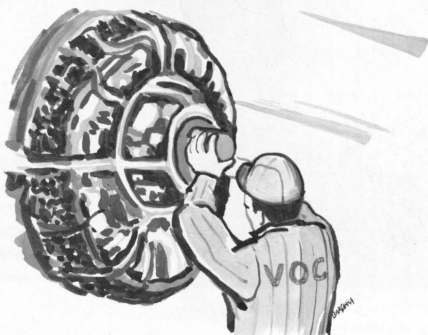

MR. GEORGE ENGDAHL: Auto
Mechanics.

MR. JAMES HINSHAW: Auto Mechanics.

MR. FRANZ SJOWALL: Department Head: Aviation Mechanics: Staff Council.

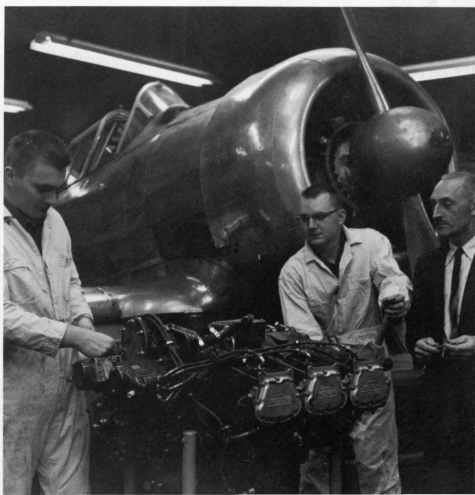

Aviation Mechanics

Aviation Mechanics is one of a few trades open for Post Grads only. In this course they learn the basic parts of an airplane and instrument repair. The school equipment includes two flyable airplanes on which they experiment. Future places of employment may be in airports or airplane factories.

MR. SIDNEY FLADELAND: Aviation Mechanics

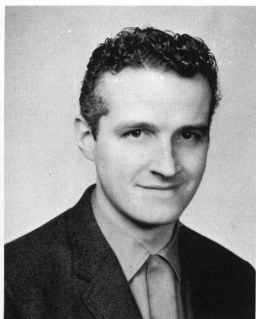

MR. STANLEY FROSTAD: Department Head, Cabinet Making, Stage and Radio-Visual.

Pattern Making and Cabinet Making

Demanding that its craftsmen be experts in the use and care of all woodworking hand and machine tools makes the PATTERNMAKING TRADE a highly skilled occupation.

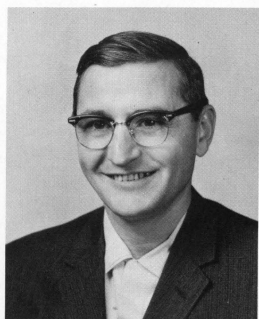

Teaching related drawing and technical information and mastering the art of both hand and machine wood-working are part of the CABINET MAKERS trade.

MR. ORVAL FASTE: Pattern Making

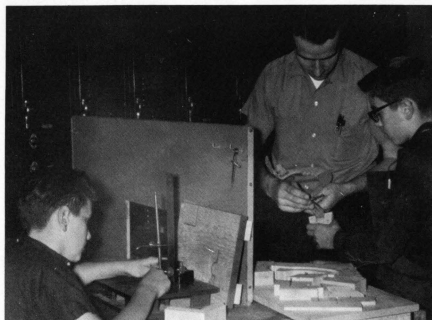

MR. ERICH P. KOESTER: Cabinet Making

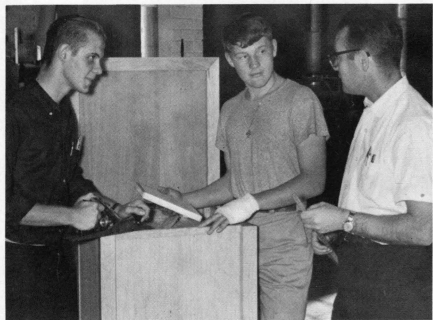

MR. JOHN PEYLA: Cabinet Making

While Joseph Palider diligently measures, Mr. Faste explains to Don Beauchane the exactness of Pattern Making.

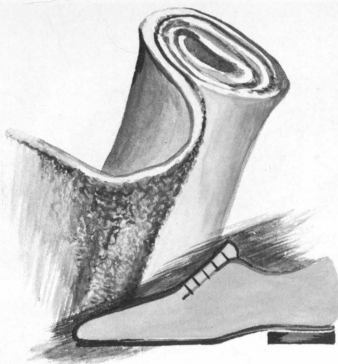

Mr. Koester is just about to check the exactness of Dennis Soj's and David Theisan's work.

Upholstery and Shoe Repair

Both mechanical and art abilities, plus a thorough knowledge of the upholstery fabrics, supplies, tools, and other equipment are needed in UPHOLSTERY.

Managing or working in a shoe shop for becoming good shoe repairmen is the goal of the SHOE REPAIR department.

MR. EARL WEISNER: Department Head,
Shoe Repair

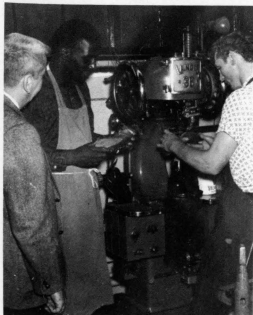

MR. FREDERICK RODDE: Upholstery

Dennis Iskierka beams as Mr. Rodde inspects the finished product.

Mr. Weisner seems in agreement with Chet Bogar on the excellence of Bill DeLine's work.

MRS. LOUISE AMERMAN: Typing: Shorthand: United Fund: Public Affairs: Flower and Social Committee.

MRS. DORIS JEAN ERICKSON: Business Machines: Junior Class Advisor.

MRS. CLARA HEENAN: Shorthand: Bookkeeping: Typing: Assistant Sophomore Class Advisor.

Business

MRS. ELEANOR HUSO: Department Head: Stenography: Typing: National Honor Society Committee: Commencement Committee: Auditorium Committee: Red Cross.

MISS DEAN KEAN: Filing: Office Training: Awards Committee.

MR. AMBROSE ZELLER: Accounting and Law in Data Processing.

MRS. LUCILLE WILLEN: Office Machines: Business Math: All-School Banking.

BUSINESS is an expanding trade. Today it consists of General Business, Stenography, Business Machines, and Data Processing. Data Processing is open for Post Grads only.

MISS HELEN ROBERTSON: Typing: Advanced Stenography and transcription: Business Correspondence: United Fund and Public Affairs: Secretary of Business Department.

MRS. MARGARET ORROCK: Trade Relations: Junior Accounting: Bookkeeping: Tradewind Collection: Awards Committee.

MR. LARRY PETERSON: Computer Programming: Data Processing applications.

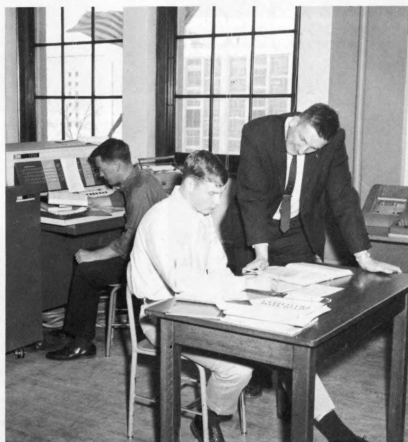

Here at Voc. the Business field is generally dominated by the fairer sex, but gradually young men are taking interest in this field.

In GENERAL BUSINESS students learn the various types of work done in an office, such as filing, typing, and book-keeping. STENOGRAPHY students learn these plus shorthand and transcription. Machines are becoming more and more in use, so there is more of a demand for skilled students who can run them. This is the job of the BUSINESS MACHINES department.

Zintha Zunde, Post Grad, is working on a posting machine in the Business department.

These Post Grads are taking advantage of the Data Processing course offered here at Vocational.

Cosmetology & Barbering

COSMETOLOGY is a trade that is open for both the Post-Grad and high school students. They are taught how to give bleaches, tints, facials, and permanent waves. After they have completed 1500 hours they may take the State Board exam. Another course that is offered at Vocational for Post-Grads only is BARBERING. This is a 1200 hour 9 month course. When they have completed this course they may take the state examination for an apprentice Barber License.

MR. ROBERT GRAHAM: Barbering

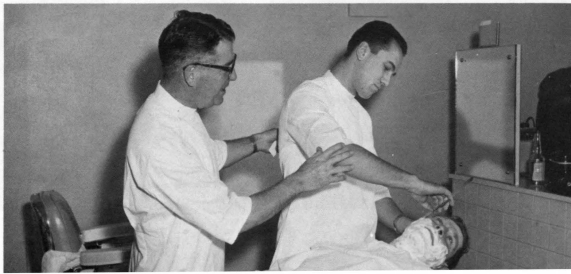

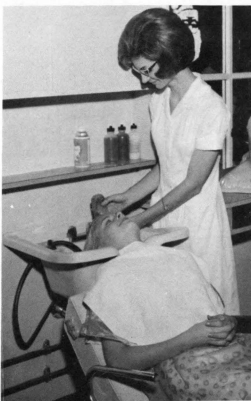

MRS. DOROTHEA NEPRUDE: Cosmetology:
Vocette Adviser.

MISS CHARLOTTE MEYERS: Cosmetology:
Staff council.

MISS MURIEL ZIEGLER: Cosmetology.

Electricity

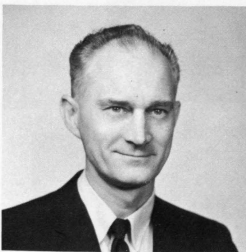

Mr. Hiltner observes students working on the electrical components of an automatic washer.

A vast horizon of opportunity opens for students who plan a career in the electrical industry. The inconceivable rate of expansion provides widespread opportunities available in this field.

Students in this trade learn the basic skills and techniques of the field. Upon extending their education in this work they may enter any one of the many job opportunities open in this industry. Today, the electrical field is a useful trade in our growing society, and it can be advanced into many other coordinate trades with the proper education.

This course is offered to high school students as well as post-graduates. These students receive a sound foundation in theory and practice in preparation for entering apprenticeship.

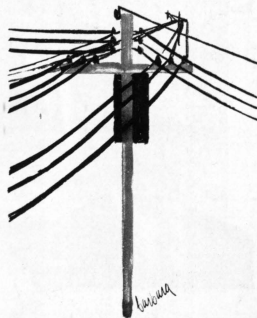

MR. WILLIAM HILTNER: Electricity

MR. WENDEL NIES: Department Head; Electronics.

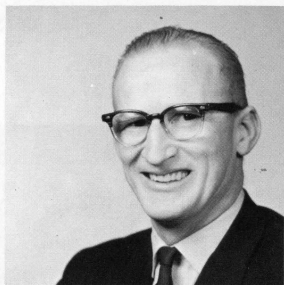

MR. CLIFFORD LUNDBERG: Electricity.

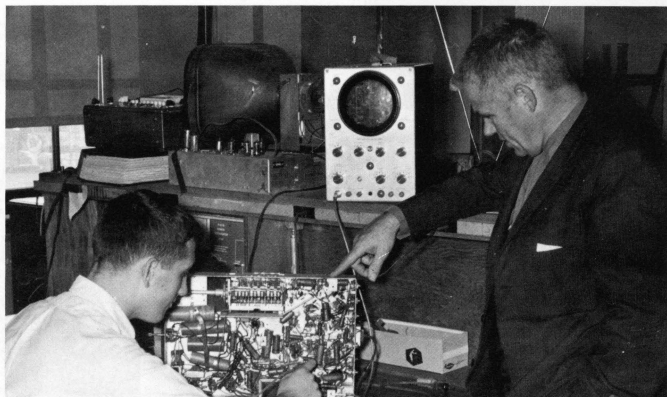

Electronics

Radio - Television

A basic knowledge in the field of installation, construction and repair of electronic equipment and appliance is acquired by students in the ELECTRONICS-ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT. This background provides a firm basis for employment in any field of electronics.

MR. RODNEY VAN SICKLE: Department Head, Electronics; Civil Defense

Through a maze of tubes and wires Mr. Rodney Zander has located the error with the assistance of Mr. Calvin Schaeffer.

MR. ROY ALMEN: Electronics, Civil Defense, Radio Control Room

MR. ROBERT BACKSTROM: Computer Theory, Electronics, Related Math

MR. CALVIN SCHAEFFER: Radio and Television, Post Grad Electronics

MR. EUGENE HALL: Department Head, Machine Drafting

Machine Drafting Architectural Drafting

Students learn how to use tools necessary in designing and drawing plans for buildings in ARCHITECTURAL DRAFTING. Various building materials and methods of construction are also studied and used.

Methods and tools used in drawing machine parts are taught in the MACHINE DRAFTING course.

MR. DANIEL ANDERSON: Related Drawing

MR. JOSEPH BUDISH: Architectural Drawing, Golf Coach, Auditorium programs, National Honor Society

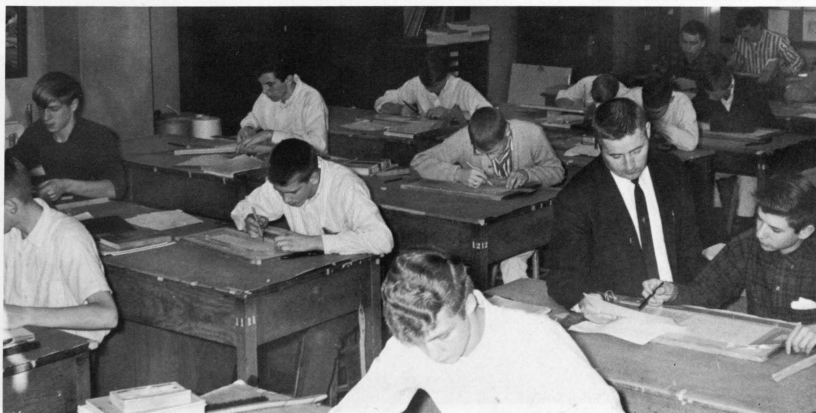

MR. DAYTON HOKENSTROM: Machine Drafting

MR. GARFIELD SCHOW: Machine Drafting, Related Math, Open House, Awards Committee, Faculty Athletic Manager

Mr. Anderson listens patiently as William Harkie explains his problem.

MR. LOUIS PREKKER: Department Head, Sheet Metal

Machine Shop Sheet Metal Welding

The use of hand tools and the operation of automatic and semi-automatic power tools are taught in the MACHINE SHOP. Here the students gain the knowledge and training necessary to make highly accurate parts for a wide variety of manufactured products such as refrigerators and tractors.

Training in the manufacturing of metal products such as downspouts, copper canopies, and in building construction are part of the SHEET METAL trade.

MR. CLARENCE BOOTH: Machine Shop, Pep Fest M.C., Auditorium Program

MR. HOWARD FRIES: Machine Shop

MR. GENE ROME: Welding

MR. GENE SANFORD: Machine Shop

Student listens while Mr. Rome explains one of the many complicated problems in welding.

A good basic background in the field of nursing is given in Vocational's PRE-NURSING department. Here the students have an opportunity to test their manual dexterity through fundamental nursing care procedures.

The PRACTICAL NURSING is made up of Post Grads. These students are trained at the Swedish Hospital. When this course is completed, they must take a state examination to become a licensed practical nurse.

MRS. EVELYN BEATTY: Department Head; Trade Relations; Advanced Nursing; Psychology; Child Development.

Pre-Nursing

MISS GLADYCE BUDD: Nutrition; Physiology; Nursing Arts; Hygiene

MRS. JANET HENRICKSEN: Medical and Surgical Diseases; Nutrition and Diet Therapy; Body Structure and Function.

MISS GERTRUDE SEARS: Nursing Procedures and Practices; Life Span; Medications.

Both girls seem to be amusing themselves during a practice session in pre-nursing.

The Corner Cove consists of primarily student-made items which may be purchased at any time during the school year.

MRS. MARGUERITE BELTON:
Power Sewing.

MRS. PATRICIA BRUNSBURG:
Sales Training

MR. EDWARD KARBO: Tailoring;
Sophomore Class Advisor.

MRS. SOPHYA REITAN: Textiles

A job well done deserves a smile from Mr. Henry Arent.

MRS. DENA TARNOWSKI: Needle
Arts.

A bit of added instruction goes to one of the Tailoring students.

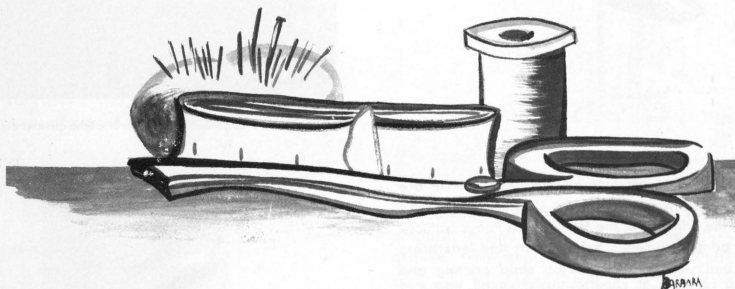

Needle Arts, Tailoring, Sales and Receptionist

The world of clothing is an ever-growing industry, needing new people for creating new fashion designs. The people in the trades of Needle Arts and Tailoring are well trained in the many aspects of making fine clothing and creating new fashion designs.

In Sales Reception, students learn to cope with the public. The art of selling and the ability to satisfy the needs of customers are skills acquired by students.

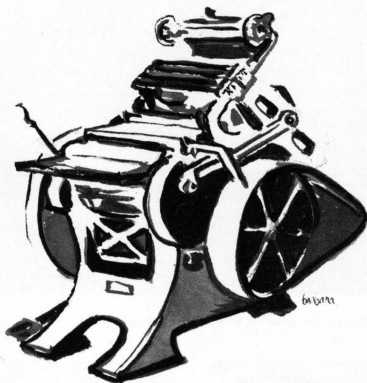

MR. HENRY ARENT: Band Director; Department Head of Needle Arts; Pattern Making; Suits and Coats.

Special attention to details goes into the making of every article of clothing.

Printing

Spence Olson loads feeder of a litho offset press.

Three extra-familiar products of the PRINT SHOP are pink passes, report cards and the Craftsman. Actually, they do all the printing for the Minneapolis Public Schools. First year printing includes bookbinding and letterpress work; second year consists of job shop printing and offset, and senior year features either further job shop work or working on co-op in a commercial shop.

New this year was the 17-22 Harris Offset Press and for the Litho darkroom two new fiberglass temperature-controlled sinks.

MR. PAUL MULLER: Department Head:
Junior, Senior and Post Graduate Lithography.

MR. HAROLD TIETZ: Junior and

MR. RICHARD GREEN: English 10: Math: Track Coach.

ENGLISH plays an important part in our life, for without it we wouldn't be able to communicate nor would we be able to appreciate life at its fullest. English teachers are here to teach us proper English usage, letter writing, speaking, and most important of all, the learning about others and ourselves through a comprehensive study of literature.

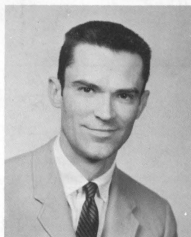

An indication of work well done is shown by the pleasant smile on Mrs. Jacoby's face.

MRS. BEVERLY J. JACOBY: English: Publicity Committee.

Mr. Jones, with the help of the overhead projector, solves a mathematical problem for his very attentive students.

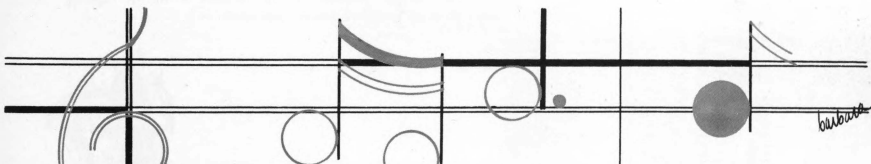

Music

MR. HENRY ARENT: Band: Pattern-making: Coats and Suits.

MRS. ELSIE KWAKKERNAAT: Choir: Music.

"Alright Students, 1-2-3" these are familiar words of Mrs. Kwakkernaat to us all.

Though the band is small they all seem to enjoy themselves.

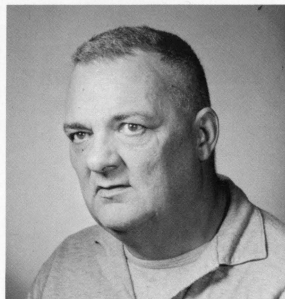

Physical Education

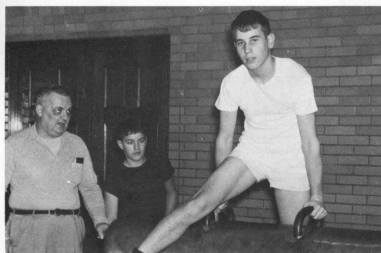

Most Juniors and Seniors are envious of the Sophomores in at least one way—that is their gym class. This is a fun class which provides a good outlet for any left over energy while it teaches the students the ways of good sportsmanship. It also gives the students a chance to get away from their regular class studies. Gym class develops interest and knowledge in different sports, such as, basketball, volleyball, softball, golf and many others.

MRS. SARAH JANE LEMKE: Physical Education; Cheerleaders; GAA; Badminton; Senior Advisor.

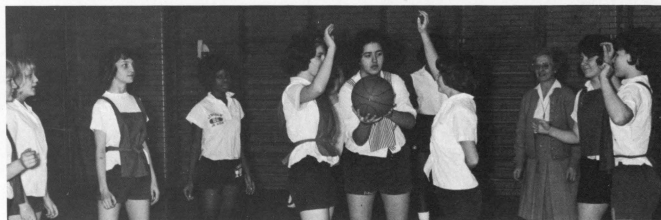

MR. THOMAS WITHROW: Physical Education; Basketball Coach.

Gym apparatus is an important feature in Phy. Ed.

Another exciting game in the girl's gym.

SCIENCE plays an important part in our lives for without it we would not have many of the things we have today, such as penicillin, missiles, and modern day conveniences.

Most trades require at least one year of science which stresses chemical aspects of that trade. A student may have the opportunity to take either chemistry, physics or biology.

Science

MR. ARTHUR JACKSON: Related Science: Social and Public Affairs Committee.

MR. RICHARD CHAMBERS: Department Head: Biology: Asst. Football Coach: Tennis Coach.

MR. JOHN VOSS: Physics: Chemistry: Sophomore Football and Baseball: Swimming.

MR. GERRY CADY: History; Football, Wrestling, and Track Coach.

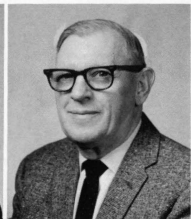

MR. VERNON FIEDLER: History; Baseball Coach.

MR. CHESTER JANASZ: Modern Problems; Asst. Football Coach.

MR. ARTHUR LINDMAN: Modern Problems; Student Council Advisor.

MR. MILO SWEEN: History; Cross Country Coach.

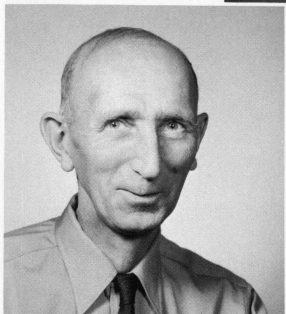

There isn't a junior or senior who doesn't remember the immortal words of SOCIAL STUDIES teachers saying, "The next chapter will be due..." or "Movies in the Radio Theater on Tuesday."

U.S. History is required during the junior year. Growth of our nation from founding until present is covered throughout the year.

Senior year includes Modern Problems with the first semester devoted to studying American government while the second is spent on economics.

During the Presidential election last fall, students were given a very thorough picture of how a nation governs itself.

Custodians

MR. STANLEY LENART: Chief Engineer

"Fifth floor anyone?"

One of the more vital needs of a school is a maintenance staff. We can be extra proud of ours for they do such an extraordinary job. When visitors come, a frequent remark is how neat and well-kept our building is.

Their work can be particularly commended for the cooperation they rendered to the teachers during the long redecorating process throughout the school year.

Another tremendous job was keeping a block-large, five-story school heated during icy winter months. Although our engineers are not often placed in the limelight, they're certainly not forgotten and are heartily appreciated.

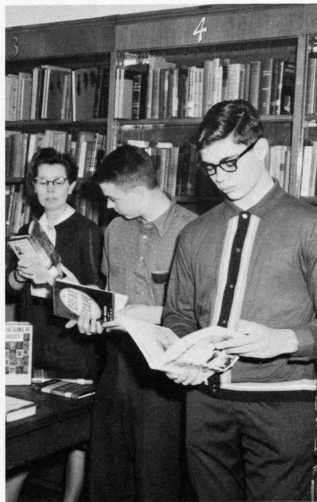

Library

The brightness in our library this past year can be attributed to the painters and to our wonderful librarians who held up cheerfully during the library's renovation.

Mrs. Lund reported that the presence of the painters did not stop the regular outflow of books. The librarians were kept just as busy as ever checking books in and out.

The big event in the library is Book Week. This year's proved an overwhelming success even though postponed twice because of the renovation.

Mrs. Lund reviews a favorite for an interested student.

MRS. LUCILLE ROACH:
Assistant Librarian

MRS. MARTHA LUND: Department Head; Staff Council; Social Committee.

MRS. BETTY WEBSTER:
Assistant Librarian

Organizations

No school is complete without its organizations and clubs; and Vocational has them—from its Service Club, which all may join, to the National Honor Society, which is a selected group. Whichever we choose to join, we know it will help us when we approach various cross-roads.

Through the many clubs and organizations at Vocational, many lasting friendships are made. We have a chance to know better the other students with whom we go to school.

Organizations bring about a new outlook on life. We learn to work together to better ourselves as well as our school.

Pat Kubinski, Mr. McGimpsey, Mrs. Beatty, Tom Koehler, Mary Spiczka.

National Honor Society

Voc organized the National Honor Society in 1956. Members of this select group must not exceed 10 percent of the senior class. Students must have a "B" or better grade average.

The Juniors and Seniors who are admitted to the Society are chosen by the committee and faculty and must have the requirements of leadership, scholarship, character, service, and must have outstanding merit in their trades.

Student Council

Members of the Student Council are nominated by the homerooms and are then selected by the teachers. There are eight members chosen from each class, giving a total of twenty four members plus four officers. The Council's officers are: President, Pat Kubinski; Vice-President, George Fritz; Secretary, Natalie Polezayenko; and Treasurer, Gregg Majors. The Council's adviser is Mr. Lindman.

The Council members meet on Wednesday mornings and plan dances and other school activities. Its two major concerns are the Homecoming Dance and the Shoe Shine which they sponsor. From these and other activities, they earn money to provide prizes for the decorated cars at Homecoming and contributions to the different organizations in the school.

Banking

Wednesdays are for the thrifty at Vocational. Students have a chance to bank on this day. Mrs. Willen and her homeroom organize all the money taken in and send it to the bank for the depositors. Those students who bank every week during the year are awarded a free luncheon in the later part of the year.

Tradewind Agents

Because of this group of helpful students, the job of selling and keeping the records for the Tradewind is carried out. The Tradewind Agents are under the advisery of Mrs. Orrock and should be given a lot of thanks for the work they have done to get this yearbook to you.

Neil Lofstrand checks to see if everything is going as it should.

Stage Crew

There's more to it than what meets the eye. All the programs during the year would not have been possible if it weren't for the Stage Crew and its adviser, Mr. Stanley Frostad.

This group of students works many hours to bring the fine programs to us. The Stage Crew operates the curtain, lights, sound, scenery, and many other duties which must be done before the curtain can go up.

One of the programs this year included this Thanksgiving skit by members of the Drama class.

The Christmas program was a great success thanks to the Stage Crew for the scenery and the Drama class for its fine performance.

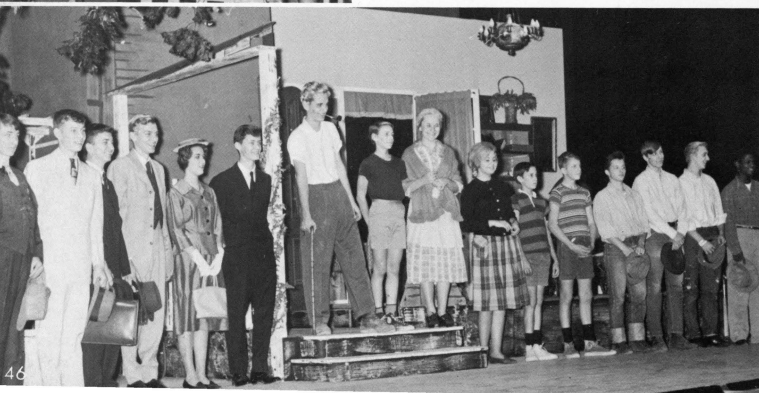

On Borrowed Time

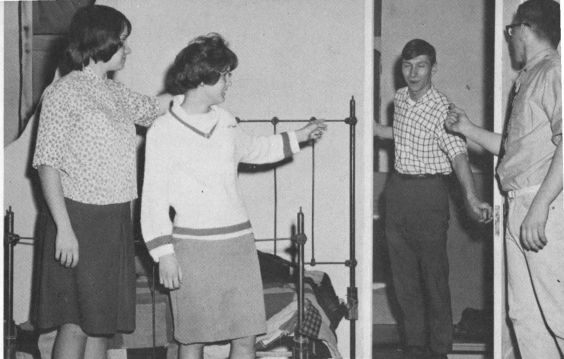

On Borrowed Time is based on a fairy tale. In it, Death is personified by Mr. Brink. Mr. Brink comes for Gramps, but Gramps and Pud chase him up a special apple tree from which no one may come down without the consent of Gramps. While Mr. Brink is up in the apple tree, nothing dies on earth. This, of course, disturbs people. They try to talk him into letting Mr. Brink down. Gramps and Pud know, however, that when Mr. Brink comes down, Gramps will die and Pud will have to live with Aunt Demetria. The people finally succeed in talking Gramps into letting Mr. Brink down. When Gramps does let him down, he dies; but Pud dies with him, and they all are united in heaven.

Seventeen

The seventeenth summer of most teenagers is exciting, but for Willie Baxter, it was more than that.

Willie falls in love with Lola Pratt, a cute, baby-talking blonde who is visiting with May Parcher for the summer. Willie isn't the only boy who falls for her; he has to compete with all the other boys in the town, especially George Cooper, a college student.

After a summer of steady competition, Willie finally wins Lola when Mr. Parcher decides to send her home. Since Lola has gone, all Willie's dreams are lost; he is heartbroken and feels like it's the end of the world, but he soon realizes it's just the end of his seventeenth summer.

Below are dance members of the cast practicing for opening night.

Band and Choir

Thanks to the fine directions of Mr. Arent and the new uniforms, our band was the greatest this year. This year the band played for our victorious homecoming and numerous auditoriums. The student body tips its hat to our wonderful band and their director.

Listening to fine singing always seems to brighten everybody's spirits. From room 405 could be heard sweet sounds of music early in the morning as our choir practiced. They made some fine contributions to many of our programs, and it was a warm welcome to listen to them in the halls at Christmas. Their adviser, Mrs. Kwakkernaat, deserves much of the credit for their excellent singing.

Craftsman

Putting out an exceptional school paper, like the Craftsman, is never an easy job. The staff searched the halls and classrooms to find interesting news items that would intrigue and inform the student body. They would often be found in room 306 early in the morning with their adviser, Mrs. Teeter, putting together the paper.

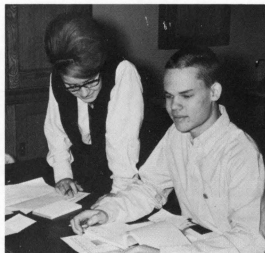

Though cutting it close, they always managed to meet their deadlines. All were glad when the Craftsman came out. The hard work put into the paper was soon forgotten and pleasure in their accomplishments prevailed when they saw the students and teachers alike walking down the halls reading the Craftsman.

Tradewind

Editing the yearbook is one of the privileges of the Senior Class. Students are selected to work on the staff during their Senior year. No experience but maintaining a certain average in grades plus dedication was necessary to qualify for the job.

The staff came to school in September not knowing just what to expect; but after the first deadline, the members soon realized the effort and cooperation are needed to put out an annual.

Besides all the work meeting deadlines, being a member of the staff is also an enjoyable and fulfilling adventure.

PTSA

Officers of PTSA: Mrs. Charles Cooper, Miss Carol O'Neil, Mrs. Charles O'Neil, Mr. Jensen.

President Mrs. Charles Cooper

The PTSA serves to unite the Parents, Teachers, and Students into one group. It is now in its fourth year and will continue to grow as the years pass. The PTSA sponsors dances and helps at the many school activities. It also cooperates with other organizations in the school.

The PTSA also sponsors a cooking show. This is one of its main events of the year. A contest is held each year to see who sells the most tickets for the cooking show. This year's award went to Leigh Schmidt.

This year has been a successful one for the PTSA and was brought about by the good attendance of Parents, Teachers, and Students throughout the year.

Chess Club

Did you know there is a new club at Vocational? This year the Chess Club was organized by Skip Iverson. It began slowly, but the club soon gained several members. Post graduates are also welcome to the Chess Club.

The members have not challenged other schools, but they have had many competitive games between themselves in preparation for a competitive season next year.

Junior Red Cross Committee

Have you ever wondered how all those little boxes appear in your homeroom around Christmas time and what happens to them when they are filled?

All the credit for this goes to the Junior Red Cross Committee. This group, under the advisory of Miss Edblom, is responsible for the procedure of this project. They distribute the Red Cross boxes to the homerooms and collect them when they are filled. The group then packs them together and sends them to the Red Cross to be sent to needy children around the world.

Ask any boy at Vocational which organization he wished he could join, and the chances are two out of three he'd say, "The Vocettes!"

The Vocettes is the most colorful organization at Vocational. It is under the direction of Mrs. Bakken and under the advisory of Mrs. Neprude. Rose Bank is Captain of this dance line, and Co-Captain is Leigh Schmidt.

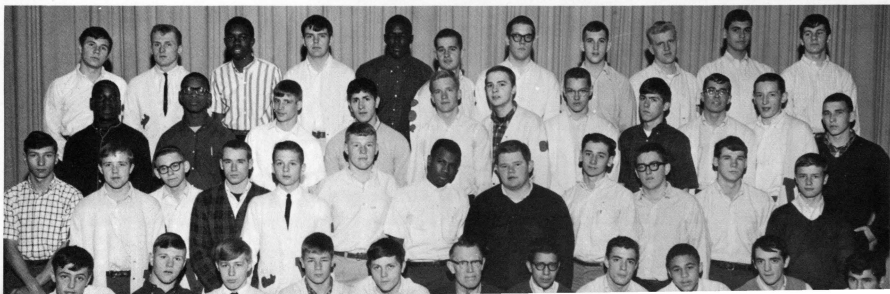

The Vocettes performed at the Homecoming Game by dancing to "Chicago." They appeared on stage many times throughout the year and are always a welcomed attraction.

Letterman's Club

When it's Friday, you don't have to be popular to know who is a member of the Letterman's Club and who isn't. The halls are full of Lettermen with their well-known white sweaters with the famous gold V.

To be a Letterman you must participate in any one of the many sports offered at Vocational. Every Letterman looks forward to Sports Awards Day. On this day, letters and bars are handed out to this elite group of deserving young athletes who have worked so hard throughout the year.

Pep Club

Though this was only the second year Vocational has had a Pep Club, it has the largest membership of any other club.

The Pep Club is open to any girl or boy at Vocational. The only requirements of the club are that each student must have a lot of pep and lots of school spirit.

School Life

School life is simply the life of the student in school. The informalities of school life include our extra-curricular functions as well as the time we spend walking the halls in the morning and between classes with our friends.

The formal and more important aspect of school life evolves around the atmosphere of our studies.

In its entirety, the way of school at Voc is the mainstream of social activity that makes belonging to Voc more than just an educational experience.

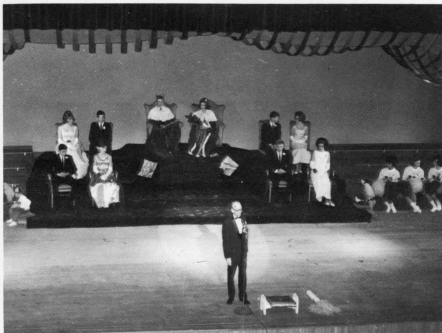

Mr. Booth singing "Old Man River."

Homecoming—The most exciting event of the school year—brought with it this year, amidst mass confusion, the anticipation of a great and victorious game, and rightfully so. But before that whopping victory of 30—0 over Marshall, the sale of confetti and pompons and other last minute details and preparations had to be attended to.

By one o'clock that afternoon tension and anxiety reached a peak. Everyone was wondering who our 1964 Homecoming King and Queen would be. Finally we filed into the auditorium and took our seats. The lights dimmed. The Homecoming candidates and royalty walked down the aisles to the stage where they faced us at that last moment. The crowning of King Pat and Queen Tone then set us in full spirits for the remainder of the program and the grand game.

Barney Gardner acted as master of ceremonies, congratulating Tone and Pat, rousing us by referring to the Red Birds as dead birds, bringing on the school choir

The cheerleaders then led a very brief pep fest after which our mass migration to the Parade Stadium took place, the process of which included lining up the cars for the royal parade that was led, for the first time, by an official police escort. Following the sirens and flashing lights, our parade went straight to the stadium, stopping traffic and defying red lights.

The afternoon was beautiful, the game, well-played, and the entire crowd of Vocationalites, uproariously happy.

The Homecoming dance in the evening was an equally thrilling success, made so by the enormous crowd of students and alumni that came and danced to the music of the Jerry Cole Band.

Sports

The crossroads of sports branch out into many directions. We must decide for ourselves which road we wish to follow. Will it be football, basketball, swimming, wrestling, hockey? The decision is ours alone.

Many times the crossroads of sports have led to defeat, but our Volts optimistically looked forward to a new and greater challenge. They demonstrated unfailing loyalty and did not shrink from the opportunity to represent our school colors.

We are proud to say, these boys represent our school.

The Volts began a successful football season with a 13-12 victory over Patrick Henry. The outcome of this exciting game entitled the Volts to meet Southwest in their first night game of the season. Although they played well, Vocational was defeated by a margin of 13-7. Next week Washburn beat Vocational by a score of 28-0. The team's spirit was not dampened, however, and the Volts came back strongly with a heralding 30-6 Homecoming victory over Marshall. Our morale was boosted, and the Volts bravely faced Roosevelt in a second night game. They defeated the Volts by a score of 27-0. We then traveled South to meet the Tigers in a fierce match. The revival of team spirit on the part of the Volts forced South to lose its Homecoming game by a score of 13-6. The two final games of the season, fought against West and Central, were bitterly lost. The Cowboys outmaneuvered the Volts and emerged with a staggering 30-0 victory. Then Central gained a triumphant victory by stopping the Volts with a shocking 39-7 score.

Coach Tom Withrow and Captain Pat Bogucki.

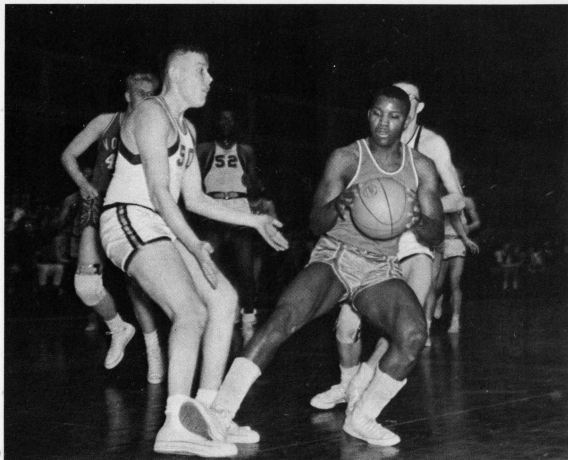

Starting the season with only three returning seniors, Coach Tom Withrow knew that his team would be going through a rebuilding process this year.

Their won-and-loss record wasn't impressive, but the loyalty and and sportsmanship that the guys showed made them winners in their own way.

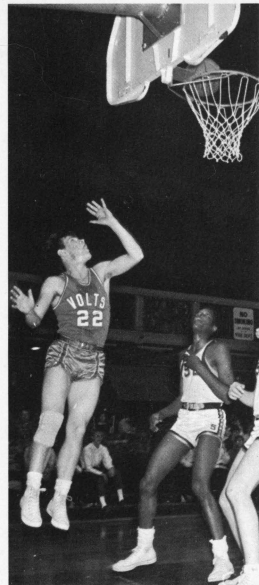

Heading to be one of Vocational's greats, sophomore Al Burrell led the scoring for the team. In addition, seven juniors and five sophomores will be back next season promising to set the team high in city standings.

Hockey

Closing the season was exceptionally hard for our icemen. Even though their record wasn't the best, many hard hours of practice and determination kept the guys fighting.

Scoring increased towards the end of the season as the team melted some of its weak areas.

Lack of experience was a major factor facing the team but the sophomores certainly saw their share of the action. Coach Jim Salwasser believes that next season the underclassmen will emerge into real all-city style contenders.

Coch John Voss and Captain Ray Helfrey

Even Bob Slattery needs air for his Butterfly performance.

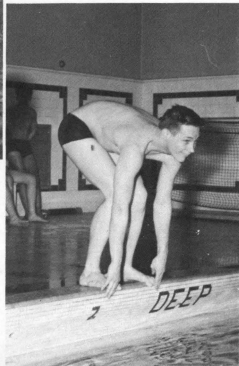

This year's swimming team, coached by Mr. John Voss and led by Captain Ray Helfrey, finished low in the city standings with a poor won-loss record. Lack of experience in both swimmers and divers was the main reason for the sub-par season. There were only six seniors from last year's squad that returned this year.

A good and ever improving junior class sparked the team, and these boys gathered valuable experience that will help the team compile a higher standing next year.

In exhibiting the art of personal talent and strong team work, the team proved beyond doubt that our wrestling squad was one of the most tenacious competitors in city competition.

Pep was the middle name for this year's cheerleading squad. Under the leadership of their captain, Toné Frank, the cheerleaders have worked out many new routines which have proved to be lively and effective.

Throughout the sports season they gave our teams their full support. Even though our teams did not always bring home a victory, these girls were eagerly looking forward to the opportunity of once again cheering on the purple and gold.

Underclassmen

Perhaps the first bit of separation of the sophomores from the juniors and seniors came at the first pep fest of the year when Mr. Booth led the cheer, "The sophomores wanna win!" Typically of all sophomores, they were late in responding much to the enjoyment of the juniors and seniors. Other than this brief period, however, there is not much distinction between the classes since both sophomores and juniors play an integral part in the life at Voc.

Throughout the two years, the lives of underclassmen are filled with activities. It is certain that these activities will be remembered by them, but the most lasting mark which will typify them as Voc graduates will be the knowledge of growing intellectually in their trades.

This year the sophomore class is very large; in fact, the 355 seniors are outnumbered by the 470 sophomores.

In spite of the size of this group, the sophomore group has adjusted well to life at Vocational.

The sophomores' one big event during the year is the Sweetheart Dance. This is the sophomores best opportunity to get acquainted with other students.

Besides the Sweetheart Dance, the sophomores can participate in all the sports activities, plays, the all-school parties, and the many other extra activities at Vocational.

Four hundred and six juniors will become seniors at the end of this year. They will have inherited all the activities that go into making a student's last year a memorable one.

The juniors have two dances throughout the year. This gives them an opportunity to meet more of their fellow students. The first dance is in the fall and is ordinarily called The Junior Harvest Dance. The second and the most important dance is the Junior Prom. Unlike the Senior Prom, it is held at school and is not as formal. Nevertheless, it gives the juniors the opportunity to get acquainted with what a prom is like.

Besides the activities mentioned, the juniors can participate in the all-school parties, the all-school plays, and the many other extra-curricular activities offered to them.

Seniors

We came as sophomores eager for recognition with each of us finding it in a different way. Meeting new friends, people from all walks of life, helped to build our high school career. Many warm and wonderful times were shared—never to be forgotten; forever remaining a memory.

Hence, the curtain slowly closes on what once seemed to be an endless journey. We enter a new era as we answer the beckoning call to the adult world and pass the "Crossroads" or turning point of life. Each of us looks toward tomorrow as high school becomes a thing of the past.

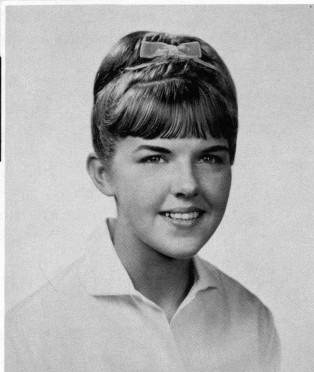

Senior Class Officers

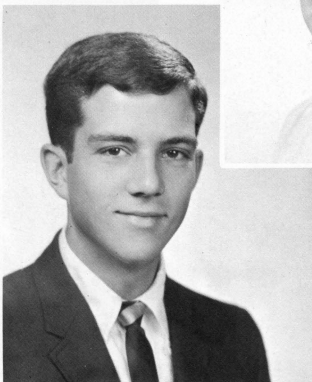

President: TOM KOEHLER

Vice-President: CINDY
THUNDSTROM

Four hard working Seniors receive the honor of becoming class officers. The ability to lead plus that certain personality makes these students worthy of notice. They have been a credit to the Senior class of '65 accepting the responsibilities and carrying out the duties bestowed upon them. Their success has made this year more enjoyable and more profitable for all.

Treasurer: DICK ANTOINE

Secretary: ROSE BANK

The Senior Council, under the advisory of Mrs. Lemke, consists of fourteen members, one student representing each Senior homeroom.

The Council discusses occurrences pertaining to the Senior Class. Main topics are differences of opinion between students and advisors or anything of importance that arises within the homerooms.

Taking care of all Senior activities such as; parties, the Senior Banquet, Snow Day, and the Senior Prom is one of their main responsibilities.

The Senior Council has indicated through the year its ability to cooperate and adjust to all circumstances in its handling of the many functions it has been responsible for.
